

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. Tuesday Morning, Sept. 25.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Carrier 20 cents per week. By Mail $10.00 per Year.

OFFICE: 67 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See Joseph Reiter's fall goods. Additional local on seventh page. Cheap Railroad Tickets at Bushnell's.

The board of registration has adjourned until next Monday. Four Germans took out their first papers in the Superior Court yesterday.

Wilson, the shoemaker, was on one of his periodical sprints on Sunday and is now being sobered off in jail.

Henry S. Braker and Miss Belle Eperson, both of Malvern, were yesterday granted permission to be wedded.

It should not be forgotten that on Thursday evening Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, is to speak in this city.

A number of the Grand Army boys left yesterday for the reunion at Marysville, Mo., and another delegation is to leave this morning.

The United States circuit court did not get at work yesterday. Judge Lovett is arriving till evening, but will start in to-day it is expected with full steam.

The crossings are horribly muddy, affording an excellent chance for the prisoners, who can't or won't pay their fines, to take a little exercise with shovels.

George H. Dale, in the employ of the Northwestern railway, was yesterday called to his home in Wenona, Ill., by the death of his mother, who died there of consumption.

Judge Hubbard, who is to give a Republican talk here this evening, is said to be a "rattler" as a campaign speaker and will doubtless give one of the most interesting speeches of the whole course.

Seaman has a whole circus in one of his show windows, which attracts much attention. There is the velocipede rider, going full tilt, Roman and chariot races, Humpty-Dumpty, and all sorts of automatic performers moving like life itself.

The howl has changed now, and instead of its being about lower Main street, it is about lower Broadway. That street is in a horrible condition, indeed, and those who have to wade about any in that part of the city are naturally indignant.

The telephone company has placed on those of its instruments needing protection from the lightning the same sort of arresters as have been placed at the central office, so that patrons may rest easy during a thunder storm. The company seems to be trying to get everything complete for satisfactory workings and giving good service.

Another St. Paul train has been put on the Sioux City route, leaving here at 7:20 a. m. and arriving at St. Paul at 11:30 p. m., making about the same time as the other train, which leaves here at 7:40 p. m. and arrives at St. Paul at 11:50 a. m.

The increase of business on this popular route has necessitated the putting on of this additional train. Yesterday the crowd who raised such a row at the California house were before Judge Aylesworth. Thos. Riley, who seemed to be the worst of the lot, was assessed $10 and costs. M. S. Boyer was discharged on payment of costs. The others, Conrad Francis, Nick Tynne, Hugo Hoover and Henry Tarnad were each fined $5 and costs.

Jailor Shontz is not much of a believer in sobering off prisoners by tapering them off on small and smaller drinks of whiskey. When drunken prisoners are placed in his care he don't dose them with small doses of the same stuff, but shuts off square, and he says the results are highly satisfactory. They beg pitifully at first for a drop or two, but in two or three days are in fine trim.

The breezy prophet, who began last spring predicting that within two weeks there would be frozen out of Council Bluffs, and who has since then been postponing the date from week to week, while the Bee kept growing and prospering, has been so busy trying to get his own craft out of financial quicksand for a few days that he has not had time to do any predicting.

The present city calaboose is wholly unfit for use. It is filthy to put men in, and isn't strong enough to hold boys. Some arrangement should be made so that the new city jail can be used right away. The new jail is none to be feared for sick ones, but may hold common drunks. The windows are so near the cells that files, saws or anything else needful for escape may be passed through to prisoners on the outside.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY. Dr. A. B. McKune is Fatally Shot by Dr. Cross.

Particulars of the Affray and the Causes Leading To It.

Cross Claims to Have Acted in Self Defense.

The Statement of an Eye Witness--The Inquest To-Day.

The city was thrown into great excitement last evening by the report that Dr. McKune had been shot by Dr. Cross. The report proved to be only too true. It appears that Dr. McKune was on his way from his store to his home on Willow avenue, and that he overtook Dr. Cross, just after passing Pearl street, going west. As to just what took place between them it is difficult to determine, but an altercation took place, which closed by Dr. Cross firing one shot at Dr. McKune, at which the latter fell to the sidewalk dead.

Mr. Sargent, who is connected with J. M. Phillips' store, was just going along with his wife, and reached there just after the shooting. He asked Dr. Cross what in the world he had been doing, and the latter replied: "The damned scoundrel assaulted me and I had to shoot him." Miss Myrtle Whitney, who was near the park heard the one shot fired, and saw Dr. McKune fall, but heard no talk between them or saw anything more to throw light upon the fatal meeting.

A crowd began gathering, and Dr. Cross went to the scene, only a few doors away, while the body of Dr. McKune was picked up and taken to his home a block further down Willow avenue. The police were at once on the spot, and Dr. Cross was placed under arrest in his office. He was found to have a pistol wound in his left hand, a ball having passed right through the thick muscle of his hand, but this was caused, without doubt, by the selfsame bullet as it sped on its way, killing Dr. McKune. Dr. Cross had also a wound on his nose, and claimed that it was broken. He also had some scratches and a bump on the back of his head, all of which he insisted came from Dr. McKune's blows.

He was allowed time to get the wound in hand dressed, and was then taken, by the officers, to jail and placed in a cell. The body of Dr. McKune was examined at his home, where it lay on a stretcher. Dr. Macrae, Dr. Pinney, Dr. Cook, and others being in attendance. It appeared that the bullet, which was No. 38, passed through the middle of the breast bone, opposite the fourth rib, passing backward and to the right, lodging at the lower angle of the shoulder blade, having passed clear through the right lung, cutting, in its passage, the main artery, causing almost instant death. Coroner Paul empaneled a jury consisting of B. S. Terwilliger, E. F. Filbrook and C. A. Rebe, and after viewing the body they adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning to meet at the rooms of D. M. Connell, the undertaker.

It has been known that there was much bitter feeling between the two men. Dr. McKune was at one time charged with some criminal practice, and as it appears, at the instigation of Dr. Cross. Although the case was never prosecuted, Dr. McKune and his friends felt that his reputation and practice had been greatly injured and that Dr. Cross had acted maliciously. The two had never had any altercation before and in meeting never spoke to each other. It is thought that this was the origin of the fatal meeting. Dr. McKune had had no thought of an encounter when he left for supper.

Dr. Cross was seen by THE BEE reporter after the affair, and he still clung to the statement that Dr. McKune assaulted him. He said that Dr. McKune was right behind him, and without a word struck him, and knocked him down. As he got on his feet he was grabbed, pushed up against the building, and punched. He said he then drew his revolver and fired, but could remember but little of the details. He claimed that Dr. McKune, after striking him, declared he was going to kill him; but could not remember of any more words. As he fired he felt the stinging in his hand, and that is all he knew as to how he was wounded there, and supposed he shot himself, but claimed the other wounds were given him by Dr. McKune.

Those who have known Dr. McKune for years, scout the idea of his making such an assault as Cross sets up as his defense. Dr. A. B. McKune was born in Susquehanna, Penn., and is about 46 years old. He had been practicing medicine for about eighteen years. He was formerly a resident of Chicago, and then moved to Sidney, Iowa, from which place he came to this city about thirteen years ago, and after practicing medicine here very successfully for some time, entered into the drug business in 1875, the firm having been called, McKune & Co., who have lately changed to a strictly wholesale house. He was widely known, not only in this city, but in the surrounding country. He leaves a wife, but no children living. His father, mother and sister live at Earlring, Ill. Dr. McKune was a man who had many friends here, and though a man of rather strong and aggressive nature, making him in business enterprising, yet in social life he was very pleasant, and in all his residence here has never been in any altercation.

Dr. E. D. Cross came to this city from Baltimore about four years ago. He has had only a fair practice, and had not formed a great many friends, apparently, and the sympathy of the community, as far as extended last night, seemed greatly in favor of Dr. McKune.

A boy named Frank Harlan, aged about 13, living at 118 Grace street, claims to have seen most of the altercation, but could not last night give a very clear account of it--he was so excited over the affair.

The only witness whom THE BEE could find that could give a very clear account was W. J. Farwell, a young man in the employ of Deere, Wells & Co. He says that he was standing near the park when he noticed the two men crossing over the street, and as they were walking along he saw suddenly they saw them turn and commence fighting. They both seemed powerful men and seemed to get strong blows in. There was clinching also, but neither one knocked down. The fight lasted, he thought, about two minutes, when they stood off from each other for a second or two, and then commenced again, when suddenly a shot was fired, and he saw one fall. He could not say that they were using hard words, but could not distinguish what was said. The tragedy naturally caused crowds to gather at the spot, and at the residence of the men, and also in front of the jail. There was some whisperings that possibly there might be a lynching, but the excitement did not seem to run high enough to warrant any such predictions.

REVIEW OF THE RACES. What the Spirit of the Times Man Has to Say About Council Bluffs and Its Horses.

The last number of The Spirit of the Times has a review of the races here, which will be read with special interest because the known correspondent is A. G. Hancock, of Kansas City, to whom as much as to any one man, was due the enjoyment caused by the excellent starting and just management of the races. From the article we glean the following: To Thomas Bowman, the secretary; John Perego, the vice-president, and Henry Eisenman, the treasurer, this association owes its prosperity this year. They worked early and late, and horsemen cannot forget their favors. The public gave them great encouragement by attending in large numbers, day after day, and I noticed that everybody seemed well pleased with the show. The Iowa Circuit next spring will take in this association, and a new departure will be made in having all the purses $500 each.

U. C. Blake, of Cedar Rapids, was one of the judges all through the week, and was the mainstay of the stand. Very little scoring was done, at which the public were not slow to show their appreciation, but they little know how well every driver was acting, and how much they assisted the starter. Never have I seen men so fair, so gentlemanly in their conduct and charge toward the wire. Even when the contests were red-hot, they seemed to vie with each other in coming together. Down the stretch they could be heard scolding and shouting for turning too soon or too late. The starter feels grateful for their efforts in this direction.

The first race called was the 2-40 class, with eleven entries. Only five appeared for the word. Glenwood was a slight favorite over Lucy B. and Toronto Maid. The latter, in view of her going so well during the summer, was thought well of by many, but she lacked condition, did not square away, and was evidently very wrong. Glenwood added another wispie wrong. The 2-50 list the first race, but the fourth was so lame from thumping himself that he had to be drawn. He is a chestnut, eight years old, about 16 hands high, well shaped, good legged, a square, free gait, and resemble all the Bashaws in bold, lofty carriage. John Penman handled him. Lucy B., who finally turned up winner, is owned and driven by A. L. Comings. Her breeding is unknown. It is rumored she is a deal faster than she showed in this race. Only by a scratch did she miss the aristocratic circle.

In the pacing race two items are worth noting. In the morning Comings said to me: "Sailor Boy wrenched himself badly in the race at St. Joseph, and were it not to save my entrance, I should not start." Owing to this Limber Jack sold a big favorite, and he was deemed a certain winner. Then, after all this, to see Sailor Boy walking away with the race in an easy manner, was the worst kind of surprise party. I am not sure but Comings had some money placed on Jack. At any rate, some of his intimate friends had, but when he found he could win it, he went along like the white man he is, without a murmur.

The free-for-all was a corker. St. Cloud sold for $20; Cody, $10; Big Soap an. Bronze, $4 each. Nobody wanted Soap but G'ynn, and whenever it came to him the buyers held aloof. Lew would say: "I'll take him." Before the race was over many a man wanted to hire some chap to club him for not buying. G'ynn was unsteady and did not seem himself. Soap lowered his mark, and the last two heats could have gone faster had there been any necessity for it. It was a great race and the best horse won.

Anglin won the 2-37 class, going the third heat in quite good time. John Stuart in hand, he was very steady, having changed greatly for the better since last year. He is capable of trotting faster, as he is a Wilkes, which means much. Col. Root is still confined to his room at the Ogden by sickness. His wife arrived yesterday in response to the word sent her as to his condition.
